GERMAN LABOR CALLS GENERAL STRIKE

EBERT GATHERS MEN TO BATTLE KAPP REGIME

WORKERS QUIT CALLING FOR CHANGE OF POWER WHEN NEW RULER TAKES CHARGE IN BERLIN

(By Associated Press)

Paris, (Havis), March 15.—The railroad federation in Germany has declared a general strike on the railways, according to the Lokal Anzeiger. It took this action the newspaper said, upon the government's refusal to comply with an ultimatum if the railroad men for the retirement of Chancellor Kapp, Dr. von Jarow and Dr. Traub, the Minister of Public Works from the new government.

Ebert Mobilizing

Berlin, March 15.—Leaders of the Ebert government ousted from power by sudden reactionary revolt Saturday morning are apparently gathering their forces to combat the new regime here. They are being aided by labor forces which have declared a general strike throughout Germany as a protest against a change in the national government.

Prussia seems to be the nucleus around which the military leaders have followed up their movement. Reports from various states in other parts of Germany would indicate that General Noske, Minister of Finance of the old government has forces at his disposal but that there is probably opposition to the new regime.

France Strengthens Troops
Paris, March 15.—France contemplates sending three more army corps to Weisbaden, Neustadt and Bonn, thus doubling her forces along the Rhine, according to the Petit Parisien. Marshall Foch will call a meeting of the Supreme War Council as soon as he returns from Magence where he will confer today, with Allied leaders.

Reports reaching this city state that every step has been taken to maintain order in occupied districts of Germany and that inter allied commissions for the Rhenish provinces have received the German High Commission after having conferred with Allied military leaders.

Ask Recognition
London, March 15.—One of the first acts of the new government in Berlin was to request recognition from the Allied Commission in Germany, according to an official Berlin message today. The request was ignored, the commission taking the attitude that they would not extend recognition even to the extent of answering the communication.

Washington, March 15.—While technically under the direction of Marshall Foch, American troops on the Rhine would not participate in any Allied advance into Germany without specified direction from President Wilson, it was said, today, at the War Department.

PLAYS THE PHONOGRAPH WHILE MILKING COWS

MARSHFIELD MAN HAS PRODUCTION THEORY DOWN TO SCIENCE

The Marshfield Herald has the following to say regarding a town of Lincoln farmer, who has solved the production problem in his herd by equipping his barn with a phonograph. The Herald says:

"Alvin 'Yokel' Hansen of the town of Lincoln, who is on the former Andrew Fischer farm, is one of the up-to-date farmers in that section. Nothing goes by him that spells the last word in farm conduct and equipment. Recently he installed a milking machine and still more recently he put a phonograph in his barn. When the milking process starts up he puts a record on the phonograph—one of the popular ragtime songs like 'Everything Going Out and Nothing Coming In', or something such. Alvin says music seems to soothe and make the cows more contented—and a contented cow, the farm journals say, gives more milk. Yokel was in town Wednesday trying to exchange several jazz records for something less jerky and more musical. He tried out the jazz stuff on his cows and almost ruined the big idea."

FILL CHURCH AT LENT SERVICES

OPEN WEEK OF UNION MEETINGS WITH EXCELLENT ATTENDANCE

The United Lenten Services, in which seven Grand Rapids churches are cooperating, began last evening at the First Moravian church. The interest of Grand Rapids people was manifested by the large congregation which entirely filled the church auditorium and Sunday school room.

The President of the Ministerial Association, Rev. Johannes Roekstroff, presided, and conducted a very interesting opening devotional service. He announced that the subject for the week would be, "The Passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ." The preacher of the evening was the Rev. C. P. W. Ludwig, of the Methodist church, who took for his theme, "Jesus in Gethsemane." In a few preliminary remarks Mr. Ludwig voiced his gladness at so large a gathering of men and women, met together as Christians and not denominationalists. He stated that the purpose of these united meetings was to increase the sense of Christian Unity, and to set forth the power of Christ's salvation.

Good Sermon

The preacher found his thought in considering the reason of Christ's agony in Gethsemane. It was not fear of torture and death, nor disappointment over the seeming failure of his work, that made Jesus view his approaching ordeal as something he would gladly shun. Rather, the cause of Christ's Agony was the weight of sin, the sin of the world, which was laid upon him, as he faced sin and death and conquered it once and for all.

In closing Mr. Ludwig made the application to his hearers to watch and pray, in order that they might not fail the Christ and he urged all to accept the salvation which the gospel affords.

Meeting Successful

A deep spirit of reverence characterized the whole service, the singing being very whole hearted and spirited and the first of the series of services considered very successful. The pastors of the seven participating churches sat on the platform and a chorus composed of representatives of the various churches led in the singing.

Tonight Rev. N. J. Bred preaches on "Jesus and Judas."

LAI'D TO REST

The funeral services for Dan Keenan, pioneer of the town of Hansen, were held this morning from the A. F. Billmeyer home. Burial was made in Forest Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were A. P. Bean, Martin Hoenevelt, G. H. Horn, Dr. Whitehorn, Hugo Wussow and W. R. Botschak, all members of the Woodman Lodge of Vesper of which Mr. Keenan was a member.

HAD PLEASANT TOUR OF WEST

RETURNS FROM AUTO DRIVE THRU MANY STATES ON PACIFIC COAST

Mr. and Mrs. George Forrand and two sons, Claude and George, Jr., returned Saturday from a tour thru the eastern states on the Pacific Coast, thoroughly tanned and ready to start again as soon as the roads dry up, they say. Mr. Forrand states that on their trip from here to California they saw some very good country and some very bad, and while he liked the climate of California he says that he believes a temperature such as they have there without variation would be very monotonous, even more so than a climate such as is experienced in Wisconsin.

Met Link's Brother

One of the interesting experiences Mr. Forrand had while on his trip was at Big Timber, Mont., where the snow storms overtook him and he was snowed in. They say that they could not proceed farther in the car so shipped it to Spokane, and started for Wilsaw, Montana, to visit Mrs. Forrand's brother. While changing cars at Livingston Mr. Forrand had to wait for his train and noticed a number of elk carcasses lying on the platform. He became engaged in a conversation with a gentleman at Gardner where he went to hunt and found him to be no other person than Michael Link, a brother of Ferd Link of this city. Mr. Forrand was enthusiastic about shooting an elk and sending it back to the Grand Rapids lodge of which he is a member, and Mr. Link invited him to his ranch about a mile from Gardner where he shot an elk, which was later shipped to the local lodge and a banquet served.

Found Good Roads

Mr. Forrand went to Spokane on the train and after looking over the town went up to Portland in his car, down thru the Walla Walla country and the Dells of the Columbia, driving into Portland on a continuous stretch of paved road for sixty miles. Due to the extensive building which was going on the road he shipped the car to San Francisco, where they visited all the points of interest, crossing on a ferry to Oakland. From Oakland they drove four hundred and fifty miles down to Los Angeles over a continuous stretch of concrete paving.

They visited all the places of interest in that part of California, being in attendance at the Rose Tournament in Pasadena on New Year's day.

Saw Local People

On the twelfth of February they attended the Wisconsin picnic near Los Angeles where they met Mr. and Mrs. Earle Pease, Mrs. Nels Johnson and Bernice and Irma Johnson, and a number of people from this section of the state. Mr. Forrand states that there were about thirty residents or former residents registered from Wood county.

They returned from California on the train, selling the car out there. While there Mr. Forrand bought some residence property in Los Angeles, and while he states he is not contemplating going back there he may at some future time, holding the property as an investment.

LEGION CONTROLS BOTH BASEBALL AND BOXING

PLAN TO ELEVATE STANDARDS AND PUT ON GOOD MATTERS

Fresno, Cal.—Plans for baseball and boxing leagues to operate on a large scale in the San Joaquin valley were formulated here recently at a meeting of athletic directors of California American Legion posts. The leagues will be controlled by the Legion.

The boxing plans of the Legion representatives center on the elevation of standards in the game in the valley and all over the state as far as possible, of the professional promoter. The towns to be included in the boxing league are Fresno, Dinuba, Delano, Stockton, Sacramento, Visalia, Porterville, Tulare, Hanford, Madera, Hanford, and Lemoore.

The San Joaquin Legion representatives plan to work in harmony with the San Joaquin Valley baseball league, in which it is reported some posts of the Legion are interested, and will not attempt to enter the towns included in the Valley league.

LOCAL MEN BUY LAND IN TEXAS

S. N. WHITTLESEY JOHN LINDAHL PURCHASE IRRIGATED TRACTS

A party of local men including John Lindahl, S. N. Whittlesey, J. A. Cohen and B. L. Brown returned from Texas on Sunday, where they had been spending a couple of weeks looking over some farming lands in the irrigated district near the Rio Grande. Both Mr. Whittlesey and Mr. Lindahl bought tracts of land down there which they will farm, the men stating that from every outward indication the district there is nothing short of a paradise.

Had Pleasant Trip

They left here on their trip and went to Kansas City, where they joined an excursion of people from every state in the union who were on their way to look over the land. The excursion is run under the supervision of the Stewart Land company, who own the lands in the district in which the local men bought. They were taken to Houston and from there on the interurban to Galveston. A boat trip around the harbor was followed by a banquet at the Hotel Galveston. Later their trip was continued to Mercedes, a town about 40 miles north of Brownsville. They were put up at the company's club house there and spent several days touring thru the valley.

Mr. Brown, a member of the party and the local representative of the company, states that the first day they were there it was cool, but it warmed up and the last day it registered 111 degrees above. The roads in that country are excellent, he states, the cars running forty and forty-five miles an hour thru the country with very few bad places. They are the natural dirt roads, the land being what is called a Brennan silt loam, and was deposited by the overflow of the Rio Grande.

Grow Big Crops

The men saw great fields of cabbages and onions in growth, one hundred acre tracts being quite common. They told the men that they raised ten or fifteen tons to the acres and as they had only had two very light frosts all winter things grow quite readily. Lemon and grapefruit orchards are being developed but most of them are comparatively young as yet. Broom corn, they state, is a very good crop in the valley, and they regularly secure as many as three pickings from one planting. Cattle for beef and hogs are raised there, Mr. Brown securing some nice photographs of some Dorset-Jerseys in a field.

No Labor Trouble

Labor troubles are unheard of there, they say, the Mexicans working in the fields for $1.50 per day. Mr. Brown tells of an attempt to organize them, where the Mexicans did not understand what the organizer wanted and thought that he was attempting to enlist them in an army, they fleeing from the place and hiding stating that they did not want to go to war.

Mr. Whittlesey and Mr. Lindahl have rented the land they bought to some people in that country who will raise cotton on it this summer, they planning to plant it themselves later.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

The annual school meeting will be held at the Lincoln High school tonight when the election of members of the Board will take place and the Superintendent will make his annual report. There has been considerable interest shown in the schools during the past year and it is expected that there will be a good attendance at the meeting tonight.

GETS INCOME BLANKS

Judge W. H. Getts has received a number of State Income Tax blanks from Assessor Andrew P. Een, which he is giving away at his office in the city hall. Anyone who has not secured their blank can do so by calling at the Judge's office.

LICENSED TO WED

A license to wed has been issued to Ralph Dykstra of Arpin and Nellie Holstein of Sherry.

NATIONAL GUARD TO ENTER RIFLE MATCH

WISCONSIN BOYS WILL COMPETE AT CAMP PERRY EVENT

Madison, Wis.—A team representing the Wisconsin National Guard will participate in the National rifle match to be held at Camp Perry, O. in August. The national board has decided to return to the old mid range and as a result the match will be shot at 200, 600, and 1,000 yards. For the 200 yards rapid fire the target will be changed from "B" to "D" type. A commissioned officer to be known as range-officer has been added to the team, which will include 12 principals, 3 alternates, captain, coach and range finder. The high fifteen competitors at the rifle camp to be held at Camp Douglas will represent the state.

The issue of badges for qualification in marksmanship is again authorized for the national guard. For those armed with the rifle there will be the expert, sharpshooter, marksman and special course "A" badges, the latter for firing on the home range; for pistol, expert, first class pistol shot; for machine gun, expert, sharpshooter and marksman. A qualification bar bearing the year of re-qualification will be issued for each additional year for qualification. Officers may only wear rifle and pistol badges. Enlisted men may wear the badges given for qualification with the weapon with which they are armed. A badge once won may be worn until superseded by a higher badge pertaining to the same weapon.

PAVE WAY FOR FINAL VOTE ON RESERVATION

SENATE REJECTS SUBSTITUTE IN RAILROADING ON OBLIGATIONS.

Washington, Mar. 15.—Paving the way for the final vote on the reservation to article 10 the Senate, today, rejected 59 to 17 Senator Frelinghuysen's substitute proposing summary disavowal of all obligations. The reservations worked out but not agreed to in the By-partisan conference was offered by Senator Kirby, democrat, Arkansas, and was rejected 45 to 21. All the republicans and Senators Gohr, Reed, Shields, Williams and Garrison, democrats voted against it.

Turn Taft Down.

The Senate also promptly rejected 46 to 30 the substitute reservation drafted by former President Taft which was offered in the By-partisan conference by Senator Kirby. The first draft disavowed any legal obligations but gave congress power to act under the moral obligations. Without a record vote the Senate rejected Senator Kirby's substitute declaring that no obligations would be assumed in advance by the United States but that congress would consider recommendations of the League council to protest territorial intrigues of any league member.

Simmons Fails.

Another substitute by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, was rejected 51 to 27 which proposed an obligation for use of American "friendly offices" to protest nations against external aggressions, to disclaim any liability for use of American military or economic forces "unless in any particular case congress should so provide."

STUDENTS LIKE BOXING

Berkeley, Cal.—Boxing is the most popular sport among male students at the University of California from the standpoint of the participant rather than of the spectator, this semester's enrollment in the physical education department indicates.

Four hundred and forty-three students signed for boxing. Baseball took sixth place with 169 signers. Enrollment in other sports follows: Wrestling, 313; track, 277; basketball, 179; tennis, 148; swimming, 122; crew, 103; fencing, 17; soccer, 12.

SOLD STEEN HOME

Ferd. Link and A. P. Blazy, owners of what is known as the Steen home on Eighth St. North, have sold the residence to F. E. Weiland. Mr. Weiland takes possession in the near future.

NOTICE.

BOOK AGENT IS HELD BY POLICE IN SPARTA JAIL

MAN WANTED HERE FOR FAILING TO PAY BOARD BILL

Dr. A. C. Gale, a book agent who has been stopping at the Witter Hotel with his wife, was arrested in Sparta Sunday on information which the sheriff of Monroe county had secured from Sheriff Bluet of this city. Mr. Gale is wanted in this city for neglecting to pay a board bill of about $90 which he had run up during his stay here. D. J. Gerow, proprietor of the Witter, is the complaining witness.

Was Book Agent

According to the information on which the warrant was sworn out Dr. Gale arrived in the city and called on several business men and others offering to sell a series of books on the lives of the presidents. He was a man of large stature and spent some time about the city. According to the information secured by the local authorities about him he arranged to speak in the high school here but never appeared to carry out his talk. He also arranged with Secretary Frittsinger to appear before the Chamber of Commerce but again neglected to appear. He was also to speak throughout the rural schools of the county, it is said.

Went to Needah

He told Mr. Gerow that he was going to Needah to speak in the schools there, leaving on the noon train. The authorities have found that he purchased a ticket to Chicago, getting off the train at Needah and wiring back here that he would not be back for a couple of days. They state that he then got on the train again and continued his journey to Chicago. Upon his failure to return the local authorities were notified by Mr. Gerow, who swore out a warrant for his arrest. The sheriffs in neighboring towns were notified to be on the lookout for him. He was reported to be at Mauston and on Sunday appeared at Sparta, where he was placed under arrest.

Deputy Sheriff A. C. Miller went to Sparta Sunday evening to bring him back to this city. He will be arraigned before Judge E. N. Pomainville upon his return here.

UNPROMISING BEGINNINGS

The great business man looked up from the neat pile of letters on his desk into the eyes of the young man before him. He noted that the eyes were clear. He continued the examination—clothes, perfect in fit, exquisite in material; hair, long and heavy, artificially marcelled; face, well featured, rouged and powdered skillfully; hands, nicely shaped, perfectly groomed. For a minute he glanced into the young man's eyes, then his musing gaze wandered thru the open window into the land of the past.

He saw himself, a young man with eyes as clear as this young man's, whose clothes hung in ungainly folds about his half-starved person. He saw a young man whose hair, once close cropped, bristled in ugly unevenness; whose features, weathered and tanned, had but a natural bloom; whose hands were calloused and roughened with work. He saw himself refused again and again because of his unkempt appearance. And he mused:

"When I was young my start in the business world was slowed by the ugliness of my person and clothes. This young man has applied in vain to many men, who have rejected him because of the perfection of his art-aided beauty. The cases are similar." He turned to the young man.

"I like your eyes," he said. "You are hired."

And, in the course of time, the eyes of the second young man looked into a mirror with the dancing brilliance of achievement. He had made a name for himself in the marts of the world.

More than that, he had become a man among men.—Milwaukee Journal.

REMINGTON.

Mrs. Carl Sanger is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. R. F. Hass spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rodie of Nekoosa.

LINDSEY.

Local showers in our vicinity is taking the snow away fast and giving us that joyful feeling. Spring will soon be here.

Rapids Novelty and Comedy Co. are presenting fine entertainments at the Lindsey hall this week to a large audience who are well pleased and all wear a broad smile after each entertainment.

H. O. Zick, our worthy cheese maker, is getting so much milk he was forced to order another large milk vat. Let the good work go on. We are sure coming to the front in the dairy line, and Mr. Zick is a master at cheese making.

A. B. Weaver of Cary was a pleasant caller on business at our village yesterday.

The members of the Lindsay M. E. church are preparing an elaborate program for Easter Sunday and expect lots of good speaking and singing with services by the Rev. Mr. Daniels. All are cordially invited.

We are pleased to state that our worthy citizen, Geo. Prell, who has been sick for a long time, is able to be out again.

Hans Jensen is hauling lumber to erect a large building on his premises which will be an addition to the village.

On account of bad roads the mail carrier from Granton has been unable to reach Lindsey for the past two days.

Sad news has been received here of the death of Mrs. Kellar. Mrs. Kellar moved from here to Brookings, South Dakota a year ago where she resided with her daughter, Mrs. Ulbreach until death. The family have our heart felt sympathy.

WISCONSIN BREVITIES

NAMED CITY MANAGER

Eau Claire, Wis.—Rusk G. Henry, son of Captain and Mrs. Charles H. Henry of this city, has just been named city manager of the city of Hickory, N. C., by the board of aldermen of that place and has already assumed office there, according to word received here. Mr. Henry is 28 years old, and attracted attention of Hickory people in 1913 and 1914 when he superintended the construction of the postoffice building there. When the board of aldermen began skirmishing around for a man for city manager their choice fell at once upon Mr. Henry. Mr. Henry married a Hickory girl, Miss Adelaide Johnston.

BADLY BURNED

Eau Claire, Wis.—Mrs. James Vickers, aged 84, is in a critical condition at the home of her son, Alvin Vickers, Chetek, as the result of burns received in an unusual manner. The aged woman was accustomed to sitting close to the pipeless furnace register to keep warm. While the members of the family were absent from the room she slipped off her chair and fell onto the register, face down, and remained there helpless for several moments before other members of the household found her. As there was terrific heat coming from the register, her face and one hand were terribly burned.

PLAN BANK

Eau Claire, Wis.—Meridian, a small farming village 17 miles from here on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, will soon launch a state bank. The building will be erected in the spring. Menomone and Durand men are behind the project.

PLAN ACTIVE YEAR

Eau Claire, Wis.—Following the annual election of officers an unusually busy year is being planned by the Eau Claire Rod & Gun Club, the most active organization of its kind in the state. Officers elected were: President, G. C. Linderman; vice president, Earl Ingram; secretary, Willard V. Jackson; treasurer, Edward Uecker. The club is going out after a membership of 500. It now numbers about 200. The club was organized 13 years ago and has acquired a fine club house and a propagation pond and has planted millions of fish fry. One of the ambitions of the club is to make Eau Claire river above the city into one of the best stocked rainbow trout streams in the state.

MADE CHAPLAIN

Eau Claire, Wis.—Father Lewis Kaluza, for the past ten years pastor of St. Charles Catholic church at Chippewa Falls, has become chaplain of the Sacred Heart Hospital here, succeeding to the post held by the late Father Thomas Connolly.

Father Kaluza has been in this country for more than forty or fifty years. He has a chaplain in the German army before coming to the United States.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Elroy, Wis.—Recently Mr. and Mrs. Franklin B. Webb celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The celebration took place in the Methodist Episcopal church and was attended by the local G. A. R. Post and W. R. C., the official board of the church and many relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. R. Kinley at high noon.

EXCURSION STEAMER

LaCrosse, Wis.—Another excursion steamer will be added to the fleet operated on the upper Mississippi this year by the Streckfus Steam Boat line. The new steamer will be named the "Capitol", and it will be the longest, widest and swiftest stern wheel boat on the river, with five decks and a capacity of 3500 passengers.

PROMINENT FARMER DIES

Sheboygan, Wis.—Christian Hoppert, 61, owner of one of the highest ranking dairy farms in the state, just west of this city, is dead after an illness of several months. He made a specialty of raising pure blooded Guernsey cattle and his stock is among the highest valued in Wisconsin.

Mr. Hoppert was the father of five illustrious sons, four of whom made spectacular records at the University of Wisconsin. Martin Hoppert, who recently resigned as county agricultural agent, won a gold medal awarded by the University for having the best thesis of his class. Ernst Hoppert, now professor of horticulture in the University of Nebraska, was captain of the university baseball team and had an excellent scholastic record. Arno Hoppert made the highest record in the commerce course of the university, class of 1917, and will soon leave for Peru to take charge of a branch bank of the National City Bank of New York. Carl Hoppert is instructor of agricultural chemistry in the University of Wisconsin, and Benjamin Hoppert is manager of the dairy farm.

INVASION RECALLS A SIMILAR INCIDENT

OCCURRED ON BANKS OF MISSISSIPPI IN 1852

St. Paul, Minn.—The invasion of Iron River, Mich. by Major A. V. Dalrymple, federal prohibition director for the central states and his agents, for the purpose of enforcing alleged violations of the 18th amendment, has caused a few St. Paul pioneers to recall, with a touch of humor, a similar incident which took place on the banks of the Mississippi river, here, in 1852.

The state legislature, after a struggle, put thru a prohibition measure by a small majority. The wet element refused to obey it and an effort was made to unload a cargo of whiskey at the foot of Jackson street.

The sheriff organized a posse to prevent the unloading and a general fight began.

The encounter continued until Col. D. A. Robertson mounted a hog-head of molasses and began a pacificatory speech.

"We'll stick—we'll stick," shouted someone in the crowd.

At that moment there was an ominous crack, and Robertson broke thru the top of the barrel and dropped into the molasses.

Wet and dry agitators forgot their quarrel and rescued Robertson. Flasks were passed around quietly and both sides agreed to compromise. Legal action was started and the prohibition law was declared void.

PLAN BIG STAKES ON SOUTHERN RACE TRACKS

ADDED FUNDS FOR DERBY AND HANDICAPS AWAIT ALLOTMENT

Cincinnati, O.—More than $172,000 will be given away in added money in stakes announced by the Kentucky Jockey club, to be decided during the spring meetings at Latonia, Louisville and Lexington. Eleven stakes for Latonia have an added money value of $80,000. The big prizes are the Latonia Derby, $15,000; the Independence Handicap, $15,000, and the Daniel Boone Handicap of one mile and a half, for three year olds, and upward, a new stake, which will be worth $10,000.

Six stakes and handicaps will be run at Lexington, calling for a total of $20,000 in added money. The Camden Handicap will be worth $5,000 and the others each $3,000. Eight stakes will be run at Churchill Downs, calling for a total of $72,500 in added money.

The Kentucky Derby, with its value increased to $30,000 will be the richest race of its kind in the country. The Kentucky Handicap will again have a purse of $10,000 and the Clark Handicap will be worth $7,000. All the other events will have a $5,000 value.

Movement.

"Five per cent of the foreign language press advocates the bullet rather than the ballot for bringing about changes that its following desire. Fifteen per cent is Socialist and urges the ballot as the sufficient method of changing economic and political conditions which its readers oppose."—Figures given out by the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers.

"There were 8,000,000 adult aliens in the United States in 1918, whose reading was chiefly foreign language newspapers."—Figures in a survey made as a part of the New World Movement of Northern Baptists.

Efforts to spread the understanding of our language and the ability to use it, to define our social, political and industrial ideas and ideals, to urge the acceptance of these ideas and of the United States as a home and to help develop the willingness to sacrifice for America's ideals are being undertaken today by government and other agencies. In this big task the Northern Baptist Convention plans to take an increased part.

The need of vigorous action along these lines is perhaps best shown in the words of John Reed, Bolshevik writer and organizer, who in New York on April 7, 1919, urged the Bolsheviks: "Never mind the old men nor the middle age men. And don't pay attention to the American citizen. Get the immigrant. Get them at the impressionable ages of sixteen to twenty-five. Get them all. Organize them and teach them as you organize."

This outspoken advice has stirred Church and government to renewed activity. The former is interested that this shall be carried out in keeping with Christian principles. And the New World Movement of Northern Baptists plans to train workers, both lay and clerical, for work with certain races, as well as to "train the rank and file of church members to a better understanding of the foreign born." Men of the Baptist Church, the New World Movement leaders urge, have a Christian duty to assist in bettering living conditions of foreigners, to improve factory conditions and to prevent the immigrant from being exploited. They are also urged to help enlarge social, educational, civic and religious opportunities of the newcomer. Women of Baptist churches are urged to cultivate personal friendships with individual foreign born women. Children are being taught to make friends of the children of foreign born families.

Sheboygan, Wis.—The city claims to have the largest per capita deposits in banks of any city in Wisconsin. The recent publication of bank statements, in pursuance to the call of the state banking commissioner, showed that deposits in all local banks total $11,988,064.78. Since Sheboygan has a population of $34,000, the per capita deposit is $352.44. A comparison of deposits on March 4, 1919 with those of February 20, 1920, show an increase of $2,215,175.04, a gain of almost two and a half million in a single year.

Work among "New Americans" is specifically planned in the reports of the various state conventions of the Baptist Church. Eleven nationalities will be brought into contact with the plans as outlined in the reports of the state conventions of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho, Arizona, Washington, Oregon and California. These nationalities include French, Russians, Poles, Italians, Roumanians, Hungarians, Slovaks, Mexicans, Japanese, Chinese and Scandinavians.

Twelve city mission societies, having a standard form of organization and operating in the larger cities, will be broadened in scope and more such social, educational and religious centers established as the present New World Movement plans are put into effect.

NORTHERN BAPTISTS HAVE NEW PAPER

February saw the appearance of Volume I, Number 1, of "The Baptist," the new official organ of the Northern Baptist Convention. Issued in Chicago, the weekly had a first printing of 75,000.

Dr. Lathan A. Crandall, formerly of Minneapolis, is editor-in-chief. Dr. Clifton D. Gray, editor of "The Standard," which "The Baptist" has absorbed, is managing editor. "The Standard" had been a household word in Baptist homes since 1858.

Among the contributing editors of "The Baptist" are Governor Carl Milliken of Maine, Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale and Helen Barrett Montgomery. The purpose of the new paper is "to portray from week to week the forward steps of the denomination in the general advancement of Christianity."

Employment by many American communities of visiting nurses has inspired foreign mission societies to plan similar work, and a training school is being developed at Moumein (Burma) Hospital for Women, so that Burmese villages may have similar workers.

Sixty-seven languages are spoken in an area a little larger than Michigan, according to the report of Baptist missionaries in Assam, British India, a province which lies close to the border of Tibet. Assam is a great tea producing center, its exports being 1,700,000 chests in 1917.

MANY CHANGES IN SPANISH CABINET

FIFTY MINISTERIAL CHANGES IN TWO YEARS.

Madrid—Spain has had not less than eight new governments with 50 ministerial changes in less than two years. Last year, alone, saw four changes in cabinets with 44 ministerial changes. Virtually every one of those changes was due to the military juntas, or as they are called "Consultative Committees."

These juntas were originally formed to fight favoritism and injustice in the army, the chief grievance of the members being that places on the General Staff were allotted to favorites of the government of the day. One of the first actions of the juntas, which are presided over by the colonels, the highest ranking officers who are allowed to join, was to decide that none of the members should allow their names to be placed in nomination for places on the General Staff.

Army Leaderless.

The result would have been that after the deaths or retirement of the present members there would be no officers to form the staff. But 23 officers refused to be bound by this decision, with the result that they were hailed before courts of honor and their resignations from the army insisted upon. Governments, under pressure from the Liberal, Socialist and other progressive elements in the Cortes, have promised to revoke these decisions of the courts of honor, but found it difficult to do so for the juntas threatened to withdraw their support from the government, in other words, should an emergency arise such as a revolution or social war, the army would be leaderless.

Fraternal Society.

Thus the juntas, became a political force, which opposed radical legislation and otherwise interfered in affairs of state. They are really a great fraternal society, the members of which accept orders only from the presiding colonels in all affairs of the army, ignoring those of king, generals and government.

To dissolve these juntas the Cortes must pass a bill to repeal the act which legalized them, and the moment that is done, every infantry officer, obeys the orders of his junta, must resign from the army.

Sooner or later the new cabinet must face a debate on the "military question." The King has been left with no support action recent banquet given by infantry officers report.

"That Telephone is in Trouble..."

The "inside plant" of the telephone exchange is made up of delicate and intricate apparatus—and no such machinery is entirely "trouble-less."

The signal that operates on the switchboard when you call might "burn out" or stick—then you can't get "Central." The fuse in your line on the "main frame" may blow out—then your telephone is "dead."

Switchboard cords are small flexible cables of many tiny wires; several of the little wires frequently snap from constant handling, then your connection "cuts off."

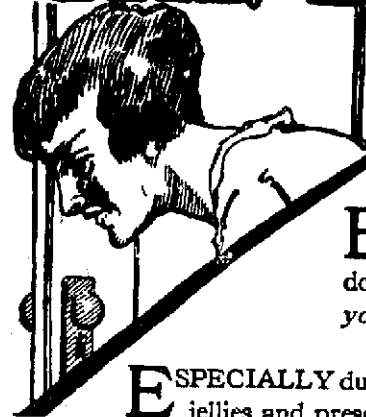

The apparatus is sensitive to extremes of heat or cold, dust or moisture. It is constantly watched and tested, but no precaution can eliminate all the trouble—these are just a few samples of the things that happen.

Considering all the electrical apparatus and connections involved in a telephone call, it is not surprising that things occasionally go wrong!

The VALLEY of the GIANTS

By PETER B. KYNE
Author of "Cappy Ricks"

This story in motion pictures with Wallace Reid will be shown at the Palace March 23-24.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Pioneer in the California redwood region, John Cardigan, at forty-seven, is the leading citizen of Sequoia, owner of mills, ships, and many acres of timber, a widower after three years of married life, and father of two-day-old Bryce Cardigan.

CHAPTER II.—At fourteen Bryce makes the acquaintance of Shirley Sumner, a visitor to Sequoia, and his junior by a few years. Together they visit the Valley of the Giants, sacred to John Cardigan and his son as the burial place of Bryce's mother, and part with mutual regret.

CHAPTER III.—While Bryce is at college John Cardigan meets with heavy business losses and for the first time views the future with uncertainty.

CHAPTER IV.—After graduation from college, and a trip abroad, Bryce Cardigan comes home. On the train he meets Shirley Sumner, on her way to Sequoia to make her home there with her uncle, Col. Pennington. Bryce learns that his father's eyesight has failed and that Col. Pennington is seeking to take advantage of the old man's business misfortunes.

CHAPTER V.—In the Valley of the Giants young Cardigan finds a tree felled directly across his mother's grave. Indications are that it was cut down to secure the burl, and evidence seems to show that Pennington and his woods-boss, Jules Rondeau, are implicated in the outrage.

"Fast work, Shirley," he murmured banteringly. "I wonder what he'll send you for luncheon. Some fill pickles, probably."

She pretended to be very busy with the roses, and not to have heard him.

Shirley, left alone at the breakfast-table, picked idly at the preserved figs the owl's butler set before her. Vaguely she wondered at her uncle's apparent hostility to the Cardigans; she was as vaguely troubled in the knowledge that until she should succeed in eradicating this hostility, it must inevitably act as a bar to the further progress of her friendship with Bryce Cardigan. And she told herself she did not want to lose that friendship. She wasn't the least bit in love with him, albeit she realized he was rather lovable. And lastly he was a good, devoted son and was susceptible of development into a congenial and wholly respectable comrade to a young lady absolutely lacking in other means of amusement.

She finished her breakfast in thoughtful silence; then she went to the telephone and called up Bryce. He recognized her voice instantly and called her name before she had opportunity to announce her identity.

"Thank you so much for the beautiful roses, Mr. Cardigan," she began.

"I'm glad you liked them. Nobody picks flowers out of our garden, you know. I used to, but I'll be too busy hereafter to bother with the garden. By the way, Miss Sumner, does your uncle own a car?"

"I believe he does—a little old rat-trap which he drives himself."

"Then I'll send George over with the Napier this afternoon. You might care to take a spin out into the surrounding country. By the way, Miss Sumner, you are to consider George and that car as your personal property. I fear you're going to find Sequoia a dull place; so whenever you wish to go for a ride, just call me up, and I'll have George report to you."

"But think of all the expensive gasoline and tires!"

"Oh, but you mustn't look at things from that angle after you cross the Rocky mountains on your way west. What are you going to do this afternoon?"

"I don't know. I haven't thought that far ahead."

"For some real sport I would suggest that you motor up to Laguna Grande. That's Spanish for Big Lagoon, you know. Take a rod with you. There are some land-locked salmon in the lagoon."

"But I haven't any rod."

"I'll send you over a good one."

"But I have nobody to teach me how to use it," she hinted daringly.

"I appreciate that compliment," he flashed back at her, "but unfortunately my holidays are over for a long, long time. I took my father's place in the business this morning."

"So soon?"

"Yes. Things have been happening while I was away. However, speaking of fishing, George Son Otter will prove an invaluable instructor. He is a good boy and you may trust him implicitly. On Thursday evening you can tell what success you had with the salmon."

"Oh, that reminds me, Mr. Cardigan. You can't come Thursday evening, after all." And she explained the reason. "Suppose you come Wednesday night instead."

"Well, call that a bet. Thank you."

She chuckled at his frank good humor. "Thank you, Mr. Cardigan, for all your kindness and thoughtfulness; and if you will persist in being nice to me, you might send George Son Otter and the car at one-thirty. I'll be glad to avail myself of both until I can get a car of my own sent up from San Francisco. Till Wednesday night, then. Good bye."

As Bryce Cardigan hung up, he heaved a slight sigh. It was difficult to get out of the habit of playing; he found himself the possessor of a very great desire to close down the desk, call on Shirley Sumner, and spend the remainder of the day basking in the sunlight of her presence.

Following his discovery of the outrage committed on his father's sanctuary, Bryce wasted considerable valuable time and effort in a futile endeavor to gather some further hint of the identity of the vandals; but despairing at last, he dismissed the matter from his mind, resolving only that on Thursday he would go up into Pennington's woods and interview the redoubtable Jules Rondeau. Bryce's natural inclination was to wait upon M. Rondeau immediately, if not sooner, but the recollection of his dinner engagement at the Pennington home warned him to proceed cautiously; for while harboring no apprehensions as to the outcome of a possible clash with Rondeau, Bryce was not so optimistic as to believe he would escape unscathed from an encounter.

Colonel Pennington's pompous imported British butler showed Bryce into the Pennington living room at six-thirty, announcing him with due ceremony. Shirley rose from the piano where she had been idly fingering the keys and greeted him with every appearance of pleasure—following which, she turned to present her visitor to Colonel Pennington, who was standing in his favorite position with his back to the fireplace.

"Uncle Seth, this is Mr. Cardigan, who was so very nice to me the day I landed in Red Bluff."

The Colonel bowed. "I have to thank you, sir, for your courtesy to my niece." He had assumed an air of reserve, of distinct aloofness, despite his studied politeness.

"Your niece, Colonel, is one of those fortunate beings the world will always clamor to serve."

"Quite true, Mr. Cardigan. When she was quite a little girl I came under her spell myself."

"So did I, Colonel. Miss Sumner has doubtless told you of our first meeting some twelve years ago."

"Quite so. May I offer you a cocktail, Mr. Cardigan?"

"Thank you, certainly. Dad and I have been pinning one on about this time every night since my return."

"Shirley belongs to the Band of Hope," the Colonel explained. "She's ready at any time to break a lance with the Demon Rum. So we will have to drink her share, Mr. Cardigan. Pray be seated."

Bryce seated himself. "Well, we lumbermen are a low lot and naturally fond of dissipation," he agreed. "I fear Miss Sumner's prohibition tendencies will be still further strengthened after she has seen the mad-train."

"What is that?" Shirley queried.

"The mad-train runs over your uncle's logging railroad into Township nine, where his timber and ours is located. It is the only train operated on Sunday, and it leaves Sequoia at five p. m. to carry the Pennington and Cardigan crews back to the woods after their Saturday-night celebration in town. As a usual thing, all hands with the exception of the brakeman, engineers, and fireman, are stung, weeping or fighting drunk."

"Do they fight, Mr. Cardigan?"

"Frequently. I might say usually. It's quite an inspiring sight to see a couple of lumberjacks going to it on a flat-car traveling thirty miles an hour."

"How horrible!"

"Yes, indeed. The right of way is lined with empty whisky bottles."

Colonel Pennington spoke up. "We don't have any fighting on the mad-train any more," he said blandly.

"Indeed! How do you prevent it?" Bryce asked.

"My woods-boss, Jules Rondeau, makes them keep the peace," Pennington replied with a small smile. "If there's any fighting to be done, he does it."

"You mean among his own crew, of course," Bryce suggested.

"No, he's in charge of the mad-train, and whether a fight starts among your men or ours, he takes a hand. He's had them all behaving mildly for quite a while, because he can whip any man in the country, and everybody realizes it. I don't know what I'd do without Rondeau. He certainly makes those bobunks of mine step lively."

"Oh-h-h! Do you employ bobunks, Colonel?"

"Certainly. They cost less; they are far less independent than most men and more readily handled. And you don't have to pamper them—particularly in the matter of food. Why, Mr. Cardigan, with all due respect to your father, the way he feeds his men is simply ridiculous! Cake and pie and doughnuts at the same meal!"

"Well, Dad started in to feed his men the same food he fed himself, and I suppose the habits one forms in youth are not readily changed in old age, Colonel."

"But that makes it hard for other manufacturers," the Colonel protested. "I feed my men good plain food and plenty of it—quite better food than they were used to before they came to this country; but I cannot seem to satisfy them. Your respected parent is the basis for comparison in this country, Cardigan, and I find it devilish inconvenient." He laughed indulgently and passed his cigarette-case to Bryce.

"Uncle Seth always grows restless when some other man is the leader," Shirley volunteered with a mischievous glance at Pennington. "Don't you, Nanky-dunk?"

"I'm afraid I do, my dear," the Colonel admitted with his best air of heartily expansiveness. "I'm afraid I do. However, Mr. Cardigan, now that you have—at least, I have been so informed—taken over your father's business, I am hoping we will be enabled to get together on many little details and work them out on a common basis to our mutual advantage. We lumbermen should stand together and not make it hard for each other. However," he concluded, "let's not talk shop. I imagine we have enough of that during the day. Besides, here are the cocktails."

"He Can Whip Any Man in the Country."

With the disposal of the cocktails, the conversation drifted into a discussion of Shirley's adventures with a salmon in Big Lagoon. The Colonel discoursed learnedly on the superior sport of muskellunge-fishing, which prompted Bryce to enter into a description of going after swordfish among the islands of the Santa Barbara channel. "Once I was fishing at San—"

The butler appeared in the doorway and bowed to Shirley, announcing that dinner was served. The girl rose and gave her arm to Bryce; with her other arm linked through her uncle's she turned toward the dining room.

Just inside the entrance Bryce paused. The soft glow of the candles in the old-fashioned silver candlesticks upon the table was reflected in the polished walls of the room—walls formed of panels of the most exquisitely patterned redwood burl Bryce Cardigan had ever seen. Also the panels were unusually large.

Shirley Sumner's alert glance followed Bryce's as it swept around the room. "This dining room is Uncle Seth's particular delight, Mr. Cardigan," she explained.

"It is very beautiful, Miss Sumner. And your uncle has worked wonders in the matter of having it polished. These panels are positively the largest and most beautiful specimens of redwood burl ever turned out in this country. The grain is not merely wavy; it is not merely curly; it is actually so contrary that you have here, Colonel Pennington, a room absolutely unique, in that it is formed of bird's-eye burl. Mark the deep shadows in it. And how it does reflect those candles!"

"It is beautiful," the Colonel declared. "And I must confess to a pardonable pride in it, although the task of keeping these walls from being marred by the furniture knocking against them requires the utmost care."

Bryce turned and his brown eyes blazed into the Colonel's. "Where did you succeed in finding such a marvelous tree?" he queried pointedly. "I know of but one tree in Humboldt county that could have produced such beautiful burl."

For about a second Colonel Pennington met Bryce's glance unflinchingly; then he read something in his guest's eyes, and his glance shifted, while over his benign countenance a flush spread quickly. Bryce noted it, and his quickly roused suspicions were as quickly kindled into certainty. "Where did you find that tree?" he repeated innocently.

"Rondeau, my woods-boss, knew I was on the lookout for something special—something nobody else could get; so he kept his eyes open."

"Indeed!" There was just a trace of irony in Bryce's tones as he drew Shirley's chair and held it for her. "You are fortunate to have such a woods-boss in your employ. Such loyal fellows are usually too good to be true, and quite frequently they put their blankets on their backs and get out of the country when you least expect it. I dare say it would be a shock to you if Rondeau did that."

The real Bill Hart—hero of every small boy from Maine to California and from Canada to the Gulf—beloved too of all the grown-ups who care for sincere and red blooded screen drama, will be seen at The Palace on Wednesday and Thursday of this week in his latest Paramount-Artcraft western drama, "Square Deal Sanderson."

In several of his more recent films Mr. Hart has doffed chaps and spurs for other than western roles. But now he's once more in habitual harness astride his well loved nag and with his wide brimmed Stetson so that he can nervously handle it when talking to "the girl." And he riots thru a picture chock-full of action, excitement and heroism of the genuine Hart-y type. There are lively scraps, quick shooting—all the characteristic incidents of life as it was lived in the yesteryear of the Southwest land. The genuine desert atmosphere which Big Bill's loyal admirers love so well is all in "Square Deal Sanderson."

AMERICAN'S USE OIL

London—"Americans are a long way ahead of us in the use of oil fuel for ships," said J. H. Williams, an expert on marine engineering, at a recent meeting of the Institute of marine engineering, at a recent meeting in the Institute of Marine Engineers. "There is hardly an American ship coming over today that is not burning oil," he proceeded. "Today for shipping there is not the slightest doubt that oil is a cheaper fuel than coal. There are many ports today where oil is half the price of coal. In South America oil is displacing coal very rapidly. Oil can be obtained out East in practically every big port. Wherever coal is dear, oil will replace it. We are barbarians if we used coal today. As scientific men we should use oil which is coming into its own and has a tremendous future."

Boy Scouts of America

Local Scout News

Troop Five walked beyond Nekoosa and back Sunday. The entire troop enjoyed a fine supper served by Mrs. Jacob Hopalowski of Nekoosa. The troop returned to this city in excellent shape enthusiastic about their trip, and determined to take another in the near future. This is one of the longest trips taken by any troop.

The Court of Honor held their first session last Monday night at Scout Headquarters, with Scout Commissioner Nash, Scout Executive Knapp, Father Reding and Mr. Mott present. There appeared before the Court 2nd Class Scout Thomas Dutcher who was examined as to his qualifications for promotion to the First Class Rank. He was awarded the First Class Badge.

First Class Scouts Thomas Nash and Gerald Smith appeared for Merit Badge Examinations. Scout Nash was awarded the badge for first aid and pioneering, while Scout Smith won the badge for pioneering.

The Court of Honor will meet regularly on the 2nd Monday of each month and they anticipate a large number of applicants at their next session. A number of boys are almost prepared for the first class rank and there will be several more Merit Badges to award.

Scouts Pass Many Tests. Saturday and Sunday the Scouts of Grand Rapids were busy passing outdoor tests. A number went to Birch Lodge Saturday and every one who went passed one or more tests. Sunday Troop No. 3 went out in the afternoon to take cooking and fire building tests. Troop No. 1 was also busy under the supervision of Mr. Harding, Mr. Rahn and Dr. Mills. A flock of 2nd class scouts is expected as the result of all this activity.

Boys Re-Decorate Scout Office. The walls of the room at the Library occupied by the scout office, were in pretty bad condition up to last Saturday. They were smoky, the plaster broken and stuck up with nails, stickers etc., but when Gerald Smith and Tom Dutcher got through with them the place looked like a new room. These two scouts washed the walls, patched the plaster and covered the walls with a coat of Jewel wall finish. This work qualified them for a Merit Badge in Hindleratt. Oh, Boy, Ain't it a Grand and Glorious Feelin'?

This morning's sun makes a fellow feel like hunting up his tackle box gettin' his old boat fixed up and his camp duffle in shape. But say, Scouts, doesn't it make you think of our feathered friends that are coming up to spend the summer with us. What about building some Bird Houses? Every scout ought to build and put up at least one. Let's all get busy.

URGE KEEPING UP MILK PRICES

CENTRAL WISCONSIN VETERINARIANS CENSUS MILWAUKEE ATTORNEY

The Central Wisconsin Association of Graduate Veterinarians, at its meeting held at Marshfield recently, adopted a set of resolutions protesting against decreasing the price paid to farmers for milk thru the efforts of the state division of markets.

The resolutions follow: Cite Value Received "Whereas, It has come to our notice thru the press that Alvin C. Reis, Between now and the fifteenth of April and work on this. We are going to make it a contest, with prizes for the three best and a Special award to every troop in which each scout builds a bird house. Get busy with 'em. Bring down to Scout Headquarters not later than the 15 of April.

Also Now About Gardens? Every Scout ought to have one. Win the Gardening Merit Badge and a prize at the same time. Look in your handbook for the requirements of the Gardening Merit Badge, plant a garden to meet those requirements, enter your name in the Scout Garden Contest and get busy. There will be prizes for the three best. These nice days sure start a fellow thinking about birds and gardens, and hiking, camping, swimming and all those good old summer-time activities.

What The Troops Are Doing. Troop No. 1 have a 2nd class scout, Meade Reeves. There are several others almost there. This troop holds their regular meeting Tuesday night at the M. E. Church. Mr. C. K. Boyer of the Consolidated will give them a short talk on the safety first movement and rules for safety first.

Troop No. 2 now boast on another First Class Scout and also a Merit Badge Scout. Tom Dutcher is First Class and Thom. Nash has two Merit Badges. Scout Herbert Peck expects to appear before the Court of Honor in April for his First Class Badge and Dutcher and Nash will be there for some merit badges. There was 100 per cent. attendance at the last meeting, as the result of their contest with Troop No. 5. Troop No. 5, however, is still in the lead.

Troop No. 3 took a hike yesterday to pass tests. They hold their meeting tonight at the K. C. Hall.

Troop No. 4 expects to have a number of 2nd class scouts soon. The boys are working hard for advancement. Some are passing first class tests as well. Scout John McCarthy took his 14-mile hike Saturday. This troop meets Thursday of this week at the K. C. Hall.

Troop No. 5. "Hold 'em." We sure are breaking the record for hiking. About half of the troop hiked yesterday beyond Nekoosa and back, making in all an 18-mile hike. We meet tonight at St. Lawrence School. Let's keep up our record, fellows. We have a perfect score so far in our attendance contest with Troop No. 2. Come on, let's get that feed.

Troop No. 6 meet tonight. They will probably take a little hike, weather permitting, and have a camp-fire.

Troop No. 7. O yes, there is, too. The registration for this troop went in last week. Keep your eyes on this bunch, too, some of you older troops. They're going to lead you a merry chase.

attorney for the Wisconsin division of markets, is conducting an examination in regard to cost of production of milk, and that there has been a decrease in price paid to the farmer, and still another reduction promised, and that the price paid for the month of February to the farmer was $2.45 per eight gallon can, which is less than eight cents per quart. As this price for milk is very much less than any other commodity of anywhere near equal value.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Central Wisconsin Association of Graduate Veterinarians go on record as being opposed to any reduction in price paid for milk until like reduction has been made in all other lines. And it is the sense of this association that quality should be first in the minds of the consumer rather than price.

See Class Legislation And Whereas, It is the belief of this association that this is class legislation, Be It Resolved, That we protest any further reduction in price paid to the farmer for milk, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Governor E. L. Philipp and Alvin C. Reis.

Dr. Norton of this city was elected president of the association at their meeting.

PLANS SURVEY OF PULP WOOD

POINDEXTER BILL PROVIDES FOR DETERMINING AMOUNT OF TIMBER STILL AVAILABLE

According to a dispatch from Washington the Agricultural Department of the government has strongly recommended the passage of the PoinDEXTER bill which provides for a complete survey of the pulp wood situation in the United States. The movement is made primarily to discover new sources of pulpwood for the creation of paper and pulp mills in the west and in Alaska, but will have a more significant meaning to the paper and pulp manufacturers of Central Wisconsin and the Lake region.

Supply Going Fast According to estimates which are made by local pulp and paper manufacturers the supply of pulp wood in the Lake Region will keep the present plants in operation for seven years, meaning that they will have to ship their wood unreasonable distance after the supply in this part of the country is exhausted, or that reforestation will have to be started in order to keep up the supply. Whether the survey, if made, will bring the department to the realization of the condition which exists here and reforestation will be started is not known, however, other pulp and paper manufacturing countries have solved their problems this way and the same thing may be done in this country.

Sweden, which is an extensive pulp and paper manufacturing country, is carrying on a reforestation campaign and the present generation expects to leave their forests in better condition than they were left to them, in spite of a heavy cut which they are making to supply their present demands.

Want $1,000,000 The department of agriculture has strongly recommended the passage of the PoinDEXTER bill, directing that a survey of pulp woods on the public domain be made by the forest service and appropriating $1,000,000 for this purpose.

The senate has just published as a public document a letter written by former Secretary of Agriculture Houston to Senator A. J. Gronna, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, briefly outlining the existing situation in the pulp and paper industry and pointing out some of the obvious steps which must be taken if an adequate supply of newsprint paper is to be assured for the future. Mr. Houston said in part:

Sees Development "I believe that the favorable consideration of Senator PoinDEXTER's bill constitutes the logical preliminary step to the development of the pulp and paper industry in the west and in Alaska, and to the preparation of a plan for the continued production of pulp timber in the east and west alike. If the measure were passed, the department now feels that the following plan would be productive of excellent results:

Survey of pulp woods on the public domain and intermingled and adjacent privately owned lands to secure information on the kinds, amount, character, accessibility, of the timber. This information should be secured with particular reference to the availability of the timbers and the most practicable means for their use in the manufacture of pulp wood. In general, this phase of the survey should be extensive in character, but in the case of a limited number of areas of particular promise for pulp or paper manufacture, more detailed data should be secured as a basis for early development. This phase of the survey should be confined almost exclusively to the north Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states and south-eastern Alaska.

KIDS STILL GO FREE St. Louis—The "knot hole gang" idea of the St. Louis Nationals, with a free gate for boys between the ages of 10 and 16 years, will be continued despite the ruling of the league mandates that the regular bleacher percentage must be paid visiting clubs on such admissions.

This announcement was made by officials of the Cardinals, who said more than 35,000 youngsters were admitted to the games last season. This number is expected to be surpassed this season club officials said, and the additional expense will not eat the boys. All boys with proved characters are admitted to membership in the "gang."
